Welcome to the Annual Conference of the Society of Legal Scholars. The theme of the conference is ‘Law in Troubled Times’. This theme was chosen in mid-2017 and was prompted by the events of 2016 and 2017.

A great deal of the legal landscape is changing rapidly. At an immediate and more technical level, many areas of substantive law in the UK will be changed, and the source of validity and the limitations upon others are also being altered. In many areas reformulations are exigencies of the UK leaving the EU. More widely, the political questions posed in recent years – juxtaposing openness, with an inclusive and liberal worldview, against populism, nationalism, and protectionism, have involved concerted attacks upon law, lawyers, judges and the Rule of Law which transcend the single instance, and bear upon issues in all areas of substantive, theoretical, comparative and historical legal scholarship, and put in issue quite fundamentally the role of the legal scholar. Within the general theme, the main conference will have three plenary sessions – on Access to justice, the Rule of law and law and theatre, and Friday afternoon will feature the now-traditional Brexit session and pone on and featuring African women judges. I strongly encourage you to attend them all.

The very onerous role of co-ordinating the Subject Sections has been taken up this year by Jamie Lee, and he has done a wonderful job in reconciling the various demands upon times and places. I would like to thank the Subject Section Convenors for all their efforts. We are also grateful to all the excellent keynote speakers who enrich the conference with their experience and insights. The major organisational roles have been undertaken, at rather shorter notice than would have been ideal, by Mosaic Events of York, who have risen nobly to the challenge and the Society looks forward to a successful continuing collaboration with them. My particular thanks go to Libby Edison. Thanks also to colleagues in the QM Law Department, the student volunteers, whom you will see around the conference, and are happy to help with directions and the like, and also to Sara Bladen and Sally Thomson, who keep the SLS organisation going throughout the year. I am also much indebted to Executive Committee members too numerous to mention for help with my Presidential year. Many thanks, finally, to the Law Department at QM for its generous financial support.

I hope this is a stimulating, enjoyable and fruitful conference.

Welcome to Queen Mary.

The 110th Annual Conference of the Society of Legal Scholars will be held at the University of Central Lancashire in Preston. The City of Preston is located at the most central point of the British mainland and is close to some of its most beautiful countryside including the Ribble Valley and the Lake District. Preston is within a few minutes of the M6 and the motorway network and has an hourly Pendolino fast train service from London taking only 2 hours ten minutes. It also has excellent rail links with Edinburgh and Glasgow and other major cities and a direct train service from Manchester Airport. The University has an attractive modern campus within walking distance of the City centre, the Law Courts and the railway station.

The conference will run from the afternoon of Tuesday September 3rd, 2019 until lunchtime on Friday September 6th. The theme of the conference will be "Central Questions about Law". The three plenary sessions will focus on Central Questions about i) the Creation, Development and Reform of Law, ii) the Application, Implementation and Practice of Law and iii) Legal Education, Scholarship and Research. Contributions relevant to any aspect of the broad conference theme or directed to other more specific topics will be welcomed in the Subject Sections. The conference programme will also reflect several anniversaries, including the Society’s 110 years of legal scholarship since its founding in 1909, the 100 years since the Sex Disqualification (Removal) Act 1919 and the first ten years of the Supreme Court.

The conference sessions will take place in state-of-the-art facilities in Harrington and Greenbank buildings, linked now by a brand-new social space, which collectively will provide an ideal environment both for the sessions themselves and for informal circulation and interaction between delegates. Reasonably priced en-suite accommodation will be available on campus a couple of hundred yards away or in affordable hotels close by. Social events will include a reception at the spectacular, Grade 1 listed, Harris Museum and Art Gallery in the centre of Preston, adjacent to the Sessions House which itself has been the scene of many leading trials. The Annual Dinner will be at Ewood Park’s modern banqueting suite with panoramic views of the pitch on which the oldest and most distinguished club to win the Premier League title has played for 125 years. For those with a further appetite for popular culture, the world-famous Blackpool Illuminations will just have commenced for 2019 and are only a 20-minute train ride away for those looking for a bracing stroll by the sea in the late evening!

Further information about the 2019 conference will be available on the conference website in due course and registration will open in May 2019. I look forward to welcoming you to Preston and Lancashire in September 2019.
